

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., - MAR. 30, 1900

W. P. WALTON.

THE detectives and prosecuting attorneys are getting the assassination conspiracy down to a fine point and drawing the drag net around the bastards and dastards, who formed it and carried it to such a damnable conclusion. W. H. Culton, of Jackson county, in his confession, implicates many high in authority and as good as says that Taylor paid the man, who fired the fatal shot, whose name, it is alleged, has been given by Culton. Among the others implicated are the Rev. John S. Sweeney, who claims to be auditor, but surely this must be a mistake. A preacher conspiring to assassinate! But then when a preacher descends to the political scramble and gives up his pulpit for a measly office, he is ready to do anything and to hold a hand with the meanest. There are reports that Taylor sent an emissary to the officers agreeing to give up lock, stock and barrel, if they would promise him immunity from punishment. It is also said that he is getting ready to flee from the wrath to come, but that will avail him nothing. He could never disguise that hog jaw or change that nasty mouth so the sleuth hounds of the law would not recognize him and bring him back to justice from the ends of the earth. It seems to be the intention not to arrest him till after the grand jury indicts him, and as that meets next week and will have sufficient evidence before it to do so, it seems that the usurper is nearly to the end of his rope. The dark ages hardly furnish a counterpart to the foul conspiracy of which he seems to have been the head and his head alone can pay the forfeit, if the proof appears as it confidently claimed it will. Let no guilty man escape.

SINCE we have become persona non grata with the L. & N. management, we have had no recognition from it until yesterday, when it sent as a copy of "The Man in Gray" with the button it has gotten out complimentary to the Confederate Veterans, who are to meet in Louisville, May 30-June 3. The button has a picture of the late Miss Winnie Davis, "Daughter of the Confederacy" and Union and Confederate flags. The paper is full of valuable information for the veterans, including that of transportation, which the L. & N. will furnish at one cent a mile, when round trip tickets are bought. The Ellen N. does things in style when she tries and when she goes a'catting she goes a'catting. If she would let politics alone and be a good girl, we might be induced to accept a pass on it again, but spring is opening up now and walking is good and we can go it a little longer.

CIGARETTE smokers are being barred from nearly all kinds of important service and now comes Prof. Willis Moore, of the Weather Bureau, with an order prohibiting the smoking of cigarettes by any employee of the Weather Service, within office hours or at any other time. He says they can smoke pipes, cigars or stogies, but cigarettes positively are barred. He recognizes that he has no authority over the employees outside of office hours, but he has the authority to require that these employees be in proper physical and mental condition to perform good work for the government. He has made an exhaustive examination, and has found that cigarette smoking seriously incapacitates its victims for good work. The order will apply to weather men all over the country and ought to be enforced on everybody else.

R. W. BROWN, managing editor of the Times, was not only complimented by a unanimous re-election as exalted ruler of the Louisville Lodge of Elks, but presented with a beautiful silver table service of 101 pieces and a handsome diamond ring. With honors crowding on him political and otherwise, there might be danger of Mr. Brown getting the big head and refusing to recognize a rural rooster hereafter, except that he is not built that way. He will continue as in the past to make every one who calls think that he is the only really ripe banana on the bunch. That's the kind of an Elk Sir Robert is.

THE subsidized L. & N. Dispatch says that Taylor is governor till the court of appeals affirms Judge Fields, and a democratic judge may die before the case is heard. Does this mean that the organ of assassins and assassinations is going to have one of them put out of the way after the manner of Gov. Goebel?

HON. SOUTH TRIMBLE has announced for Congress in the 7th district and his splendid services to the party as speaker of the House ought to give him the nomination hands down. He is brave and fearless and loyal to the great common people. Let him go up higher.

THE Somerset Paragon is drawing in horns. Leastwise it takes about four or five less columns to tell it than formerly. Strange that we never blow about reducing our size.

THE democratic Senators, remembering the traitorous course of W. D. Byrum, of Indiana, towards the democratic party in 1896, refused to be party to his confirmation as general appraiser of the port of New York, the place given him by McKinley as a reward for his treachery, and prevented it by breaking a quorum.

THE democrats of the Kentucky delegation are wise in opposing the new Federal court in Kentucky. There is absolutely no need for the court except to make offices for more republicans. Besides Judge Evans has demonstrated that he is more than sufficient and that two of a kind would be absolutely nauseous.

"DO JUDGES FEAR?" asks a bleary-eyed Cincinnati paper. They may not, but they have grounds for it, after the threat in the ignominious Louisville Dispatch.

THE LATEST.

LOUISVILLE, Mo., 30, 8:30 A. M.—For the first time since Jan. 1, not a single republican claimant is in his office at Frankfort. Taylor is at his sister's funeral, Powers is in jail and the others have nothing to do but loaf.

The Winchester correspondent of the Lexington Herald says that James Andrew Scott offered through Banker Witherspoon and Judge French, a part of the $100,000 reward fund to Youtsey if he would confess.

"Tallow Dick" Combs arrested on capias from Clark county, where he is wanted for blind tigering. He will be arrested at Winchester for Goebel assassination.

Gov. McMillin, of Tennessee, emphatically denies republican story that he had or intended to loan Kentucky democrats arms.

FRANKFORT, March 29.—H. E. Youtsey, charged with complicity in the plot to kill Gov. Goebel, was presented in court today, but he was not ready for examining trial and the case was passed till Saturday. Capt. John Davis is still in jail, no bondmen acceptable having appeared.

It is claimed that H. E. Youtsey owned the rifle from which the assassin fired the fatal shot; that he purchased the steel bullet cartridges and that one man exhibited an empty shell with the remark: "The bullet that was in this shell killed Goebel." Directly after the shooting Youtsey is said to have fled with the rifle in his trousers' leg to the basement and then to Taylor's office and Taylor is said to have urged him to leave Frankfort. The militia, which had been secretly assembled in the arsenal, was provided with overcoats and cartridges an hour before the shot and was in full marching order. Capt. John Davis and Holland Whitaker were the messengers who rushed from Taylor's office to that of the adjutant general to carry his command to come.

Col. D. G. Colson, having about recovered from his wound, returned to the Frankfort jail.

About Conspirators and Assassins.

Col. Roger D. Williams, of the 2d Regiment, has enough of it. He will sail on a North German Lloyd steamer for Gibraltar, leaving New York Saturday morning.

The fact that Taylor had left Frankfort for the bedside of his sister in Butler county, gave rise to the report all over this section that he had fled. The sister has since died.

The democratic militia will be retained at Frankfort till after the April term of Circuit Court, which begins Monday, and at which the assassination suspects are to be tried.

The republicans summoned Undertaker Menninger, of Covington, to Frankfort to prove that Gov. Goebel died the next day after he was shot. The gentleman said the story was preposterous.

A dispatch says that Collector Yerkes is assessing republican revenue officers in this section to help Taylor carry his fight into the courts. At Silver Creek, alone, $150 is said to have been contributed for this purpose.

Those lying sheets, the Louisville Post and the Lexington Herald, say that Denny called Campbell a liar, when the fact is no such word was used, both men confining themselves to simply contradicting each other.

Attorney General Griggs says: "There is absolutely not a pretext for any interference by the Government with affairs in Kentucky. Kentucky is a sovereign State, and her State laws are supreme upon matters within her domain."

E. J. Martinez, with several aliases, is under arrest at Cincinnati for conspiring to sell to newspapers a fake story, in which he attempts to fix the assassination of Goebel upon J. M. Davidson, of Barren county, Ky., who committed suicide at Springfield, Mo., Feb. 18.

H. E. Youtsey, the man Powers is alleged to have given the key to his office just before the assassination of Gov. Goebel, was arrested at Frankfort and lodged in jail. His home is in Newport. He is a half brother of L. J. Crawford, a well known lawyer and politician of that place. He was in the auditor's office four years under Stone. He is about 30 years old and married.

The dispatch telling of Caleb Powers being held without bail appeared in only about half of our last edition, as it was not received until 10:30 that morning. The defense offered no testimony, but presented a pardon signed by Taylor and countersigned by Powers himself, but it was not regarded as any more binding than if any other private citizen had issued it. In refusing to allow him bail, Judge Moore said: "I do not believe that Powers fired the shot which killed Senator Goebel, but I do believe from the evidence that he was in the conspiracy which resulted in Senator Goebel's death, and I, therefore, hold him without bail to await the action of the grand jury which meets next week." Davis, who was arrested with Powers while attempting to escape, waived examination and was allowed bail in $5,000.

After he had been held without bail by the examining court Culton made to the attorneys for the prosecution, and in the presence of his own attorney and brother-in-law, a full statement of all facts known to him in connection with the assassination. His confession corroborates that of Wharton Golden and brings out clearly some additional points.

The prosecution has abundant proof to show that it was the intention to kill Goebel on Monday instead of Tuesday, but when he walked into the State house yard Monday he was accompanied by so many of his friends that not enough of his body was visible for a sure shot from the point where the assassins were located; and that on Tuesday the time to do the work was so short that no more chances were to be taken because of his being surrounded by friends while walking through the yard, so a number of desperate armed men were stationed in the rotunda of the Legislative building and if he was not killed in the yard these men were to kill him as he went up the steps in the rotunda. There was to be a joint session of the Legislature that day to select a librarian, and it was feared some binding action might be taken in the gubernatorial contest.

Goebel's death was the only thing to prevent this, hence no chances of his living another day were to be taken. As a result of developments there will be several additional arrests, including Berry Howard, Dick Combs and another man in the mountains.

POLITICIANS AND POLITICS.

W. J. Bryan made a positive statement that he would not attend the democratic National convention at Kansas City.

The court of appeals announces that it will take up the consolidated governorship cases next Monday and will sit in Louisville for the purpose.

Gov. Beckham appointed G. R. Gorin police judge of Bowling Green, which place was made vacant by Judge Henry B. Hines being appointed State Inspector and examiner.

In counting up the totals of European migration during the century, the New

A Century York Sun finds that the movement of Migration, the greatest of the kind recorded in history. In the first 20 years of the century only 250,000 Europeans came to this country, but between 1820 and 1822 more than 17,000,000 migrated to the Americas. In the last-named year alone the United States received 800,000 immigrants. Since 1882 the European outpouring to various parts of the world has been over 12,000,000 souls. Trustworthy data indicate that during the century Europe has been drained of 30,000,000 persons seeking to better their fortunes in other lands. This number is equal to three-fifths of the total population of Europe at the time of Augustus Caesar. It represents a third more people than Great Britain and Ireland gained in the first 90 years of the century. It is greater than the total number of inhabitants of the United Kingdom in 1850, and only a little less than the total population of the United States in the same year. Yet this tremendous loss seems to have strengthened Europe rather than weakened it. This unprecedented migration seems to have been a healthy expansion movement on the part of the civilized races. Probably this remarkable phase of history will never be repeated, for there remain no more such vast and fertile wildernesses in the temperate zone as the United States was at the beginning of the century.

The legal right of a baby to yell in New York city's limits, whether the neighbors object or not, seems to have been definitely established by the holding, under heavy bail, of a cantankerous old bachelor who assaulted a woman living in his flat because her infant made such vocal disturbance that he was "unable to think," and then caused her arrest as the mother and maintainer of a nuisance. Inasmuch as the average baby will yell when it happens to want to, whether it has any legal right or not, the incident is not important except as it calls for an explanation from those New Yorkers who are always crying aloud the praises of their city as to why a baby born and nurtured amidst the delights of flat life in the great metropolis should ever want to yell.

A man with a genealogical record not easily matched is Moses Chamberlain, of Milton, Pa., born in 1812, the twenty-third child of Col. William Chamberlain, who commanded a New Jersey regiment in the revolutionary war. He was married four times and had seven children by the first wife, four by the second, four by the third and eight by the fourth. Only one survives, though their descendants number over a thousand. The life of the survivor and that of his father reaches back to 1736, when Washington was four years old.

A New York superintendent of schools says: "We have had more cases of corporal punishment to investigate this year than usual. Our boys seem more than ever given to fighting. I think it is due to the way in which most of the newspapers exploit the doings of prize fighters. Not only is a great deal of space devoted to prize fights; but the pugilists and scenes at the ring-side are fully illustrated. Now, all this has a bad effect on the boys, and is the cause of most of their disorderly acts."

A young woman whose home is within a few miles of Augusta, Ga., makes a comfortable living for herself and her mother by growing bulbs and selling them to northern seed houses. She inherited about 50 acres of land which the neighbors said was too poor to sprout cowpeas. She bought a mule and went to work clearing up and fertilizing. Now she has a beautiful bulb and flower farm.
